Donor Lunch & Learns

Laura Frank of I-News was the first featured speaker for The Community Foundation's 2011 Lunch & Learn Series. Executive Director of I-News, which got its start with the help of The Community Foundation and the Brett Family Foundation, Laura spoke to a captivated audience about the changing way Coloradans get in-depth news and the new form of highly skilled and efficient investigative journalism rising from the ashes of the journalism crisis.

Save the date for our second Lunch & Learn April 14, 2011. Join us for a panel discussion and conversation about how our state and federal policies on immigration are affecting young people in our community. Several immigrant youth from Boulder will share their experiences of growing up locally and the significant obstacles they encounter, as they move forward with college and employment. Additionally, Julien Ross from the Colorado Immigrants Rights Coalition (CIRC), Alec Harris from the Colorado Fiscal Policy Institute, and Boulder High School teacher, Michelle Carpenter, will share their thoughts and expertise during what promises to be an informative and thought provoking discussion. RSVP to Suzanne@commfound.org.

Lunch & Learns, held quarterly at The Community Foundation, are free educational enrichment opportunities for our donors. They are a great way to mingle with others who share their passion for our community, while learning something new and inspiring.
