The Community Foundation’s Open Door Fund grants $50K
Local nonprofits funded to enhance the lives of gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender and queer/questioning people in Boulder County

Boulder (July 18, 2016) – The Community Foundation Serving Boulder County today announced $50K in Open Door Fund grants to 13 nonprofits serving Boulder County’s LGBTQ community.

“Boulder County is increasingly diverse,” says Elvira Ramos, Programs Director, The Community Foundation. “According to our most recent TRENDS Report, 75% of Boulder County residents are open to gay and lesbian people. We’re thrilled to see more and more nonprofits becoming open and inclusive, and thinking outside the box, when it comes to providing culturally competent services to our diverse communities.”

From seniors to youth, Boulder County’s LGBTQ community faces persistent challenges. For example, LGBTQ older adults are less likely than straight elders to have children to look after them as they age – and they’re more likely to live alone.

Challenges also persist among LGBTQ youth. According to TRENDS, LGBTQ high schoolers report higher rates of dating violence, including sexual assault, than their straight peers. As well, LGBTQ youth are bullied to a much greater degree (30%) than straight teens (17%); and are significantly more likely to contemplate and attempt suicide.

In response, The Community Foundation’s Open Door Fund aims to support the strengths and needs of LGBTQ residents countywide. “The fund fosters collaboration and dialogue between our LGBTQ population and the broader community,” explains Ramos. “And it’s a resource for local organizations serving the LGBTQ community.”
