Community Trust Grants

More than 200 guests gathered Jan. 18 at the soon-to-be Museum of Boulder to celebrate another successful year of grant-making by The Community Foundation. The Foundation distributed about $5.88 million to community groups in 2014, culminating with The Community Trust Grant Reception at the museum. At this year's party, dozens of nonprofit organizations received a total of $315,000 in grants. Grants were given to a wide variety of nonprofits, from the arts to health and human services. Included in this year’s family of grantees are the Emergency Family Assistance Association, a safety net for families in need, and the Colorado Immigrant Rights Coalition, an advocacy group working toward humane and fair immigration policy in Colorado.
